Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Armys plan to establish a U. S. Army Armament Development Center and Armament Logistics command, focusing on the : (1) annual recurring cost reductions and the one-time costs; (2) community impact data; and (3) environmental impact assessments in the Armys justification study for realignment. GAO noted that: (1) the Army estimated that the annual operating costs would decrease by about 42 million after completion of the realignment; (2) GAO, however, determined that the annual operating costs would decrease by about 31. 2 million as a result of the realignment and by about 6. 3 million because of workload reductions not related to the realignment; (3) the Army estimated that the one-time costs for the realignment would be about 86 million; (4) the cost estimates were based on relocating employees and equipment, altering existing facilities, and constructing new facilities; (5) since the study, the Army has changed several construction projects and, as a result, its latest estimate for total one-time costs is about 75 million; (6) the Army estimated that the realignment, including the Frankford Arsenal closure, would result in avoidances of construction costs of about 9. 6 million; (7) GAO determined that the cost avoidances would be about 8. 1 million, half of which would have been avoided as a result of the Frankford Arsenal closure; (8) the economic impact of the realignment on the various geographical locations shows the net change at a given point in time; (9) the Army estimated, on the basis of the January 31, 1975, payroll data, an increase on Army payroll for the community of Rock Island to be about 588, 000; (10) on the basis of...
