At one end of this, there are some tablets, and close by a little temple. The shades of the evening had begun to fall, and we could not linger on this melancholy spot. It is situated about half a mile directly off eastward from the north-east corner of the city. From this place of the dead, we passed across the northeastern and the eastern parade grounds, homeward bound. As we came down a long street and were crossing the latter, a crowd of vagrants followed us; and when in the open field or parade gound, they shouted thrice and at the same time hurled showers of brickbats. These fell harmless. On our turning around, we saw several respectable men beckoning and warning them off from their evil doing. By this interference, with a few words to those who were near us, the whole crowd became pacific, and we passed quietly on, and reached the point of our departure--the foreign factories--a little before 7 o clock, well pleased with the excursion. Art. VIII. King Pi m or Peking Gazettes: with extracts and notices from Number Ninth March 3d to Number Sixteenth March 17th 1846. We now resume our notices of these State Papers, giving only such items as seem likely to interest the general reader. No. 9. March 3d and 4th 1S46. From the Board of Office there is a long report, recommending a great number of changes,...
